COAT OF ARMOUR

London designer Giles Miller's bespoke metallic surface panels make a unique decorative addition to a home. Comprised of thousands of bent metal flaps that have been arranged in striking geometric patterns, they can be used externally in large panels. Alternatively, if you like the look but adjusting the façade of your home is not an option, Miller also makes striking interior wallcoverings. The designs can be tailored to suit your needs, or you can request an entirely bespoke look. From £500 per square metre (gilesmiller.co.uk).
