1 / CHAIN REACTION

Intertwining links modeled after a bracelet add a hypnotic twist to Bernhardt's Fontana étagère, made of gold-finished steel with five inset glass shelves and a glass top. The 36" w. x 19" d. x 85" h. piece costs $3,320. bernhardt.com

2 / TAKING COVER

Working with a century-old mill in rural Lancashire, England, London textile firm Wallace Sewell infuses its classic Shetland wool throws with subtle graphic patterns and rich earth tones. From top, the 67" x 69" Yosemite and the 69" sq. Exmoor cost $340 each. 631-537-6200; shopterrain.com

3 / THE CUTTING EDGE

Fashion designer Rick Owens brings his Goth aesthetic to a line of tableware that pairs sterling tines with handles of metal and bone. From left, bronze- and bone-handled forks, $1,058 each; a bone knife and bronze spoon, $1,176 each; and a bone dessert spoon, $1,029. 214-443-0600; ufgrangehall.com

4 / CLOUD ATLAS

Handblown in Murano, Italy, Thomas Fuchs's ethereal Cloud glasses draw upon the natural beauty of the surrounding Venetian Lagoon. Each measures 5" h. and costs $90. 888-222-7639; barneys.com

5 / BALANCING ACT

For Luca Nichetto's Laurel side table for De La Espada, a cone of painted and hand-polished wood perches on a cylinder of walnut planks. The cone is shown in Light Blue, one of six colors; the base also comes in ash and marble. The 12.5" w. x 12" d. x 16" h. piece costs $1,345. 877-388-7373; thefutureperfect.com
